HILLSIDE ADDITION

Rhinelanders Has New Building Tract
On West Side—Fine Residence Site.

Paul Browne has platted into acre lots a forty acre tract of land on the west side, which has been appropriately named "Hillside Addition." This new building tract is located in one of the prettiest portions of the city and will make an ideal residence site. Already there is a great demand for these lots and the property is finding ready sale.

Several substantial homes have been planned and the coming Fall and Spring will witness some splendid improvements in this new addition.
One thing in favor of this land which places it in advantage over other building tracts, is the soil,
which on the West side of the Wisconsin River is exceptionally good.
Vegetation of all kinds grown in this part of the state will thrive in this rich soil.

Mr. Browne has now growing several rows of fruit trees and berry bushes. He also has a big patch of strawberries. These berries are unusually large and luscious and of a delicious flavor. Last year, Mr.
Browne raised the finest corn in Oneida county on this land. It is his intention to erect there, before long,
an elegant residence for his own occupancy.

This is one of the finest additions
yet platted to the City of Rhinelander and is destined to become within a short time the popular residence section of the City.

DWELLING HOUSE BURNED.

Early last Tuesday afternoon a dwelling house owned by the Polican River Lbr. Co. was destroyed by fire.
The house was located near the company's mill property about two miles south of the city. It was occupied by Henry Winquist and family. No one was at home at the time of the fire, all of the family being in attendance at the circus. How the blaze originated is not known. It is presumed that during the family's absence some one entered the home and dropped a lighted match on the floor.
The house was insured but no insurance was carried on the furniture.

Shortly after the fire a rumor gained circulation that it was the residence of Wm. Hardell which had burned. Mr. Hardell and family were at the circus and soon after the performance commenced, were notified that their home had been destroyed. They left the show in all haste and were relieved of great anxiety when they found the report untrue.

PHILLIPS WAS IN MERRILL.

Ed. Phillips, slayer of Ole Johansen, who escaped from Sheriff Bar-tholme of Lincoln County, is said to be still in this part of the country.
The man culled at a Merrill boarding house, one day last week, and requested food saying he was nearly faint and had not eaten for three days. The proprietor who was a friend of Phillips, gave him a meal
and sent him on his way.

The hotel man said that Phillips was pale and haggard looking and acted like one who was partly demented.

The man will no doubt give himself up to the officers within a short time.

THE MODERN WOODMEN PICNIC

Only one more week remains before July 3rd and 4th, the dates of the big Northeastern Wisconsin Modern
Woodmen picnic and celebration.
Come to Rhinelanders for those two days, if you want a good time. There will be something doing every minute.
At least two thousand strangers from all parts of Northeastern Wisconsin will be here. Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of all who will be the city's guests. The members of Lake Camp 1740 have left nothing undone toward making this the biggest and best picnic ever held in the district.
Elsewhere in this issue of the New North is a display ad, containing the program. Read this ad. It will give you an idea of what this big event will really be.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Patrons of the Rhinelanders Mutual Telephone Company have received notices from the United States Weather Bureau stating that the weather forecasts for each day can now be learned by calling the exchange. The notice reads as follows:
I beg to inform you that, thru the corporation of your local telephone company with the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, subscribers of that company may obtain the daily weather forecasts and special warnings by calling the exchange with which they are connected, at any hour during the day after 11 A. M. eastern time.
These forecasts usually cover the 24-hour period ending at 8 P. M. of the following day. Very respectfully,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

WILLIS G. MOORE,
Chief of U. S. Weather Bureau

FATS AND LEANS TO PLAY.

There will be plenty of fun at the Fair grounds next Saturday afternoon. Two base ball teams comprising the fats and leans will battle for victory there on that day. These teams are composed of well known Rhinelanders business men, several of whom made reputations in the local diamond many years ago. Both aggregations have been practicing diligently and the contest bids fair to be a fast one. An admission of twenty-five and ten cents will be asked. The proceeds of the game will be donated to a charitable cause.
Great interest is being taken in the event and it is the general opinion that the crowd in attendance will be a record breaker.

EAGLES ENTERTAIN.

Several hundred people attended the picnic of the Eagle lodge at Hil-germann's park, Sunday afternoon and evening. The time was occupied with amusements of various kinds including dancing in the big pavilion.
The music was furnished by the Millitary Band. Miss Addison and Mr.
Haynes of the Bijou were present and rendered several songs and recitations. Refreshments were served during the day. Everyone had a good time and pronounced the Eagles royal entertainers.

HOUSES ARE SCARCE.

The demand for houses in this city continues to exist and grows greater as the days go by. If present indications are any criterion we feel safe in saying that some active building work will be witnessed here this summer. New arrivals assert that it is next to impossible to either rent or purchase suitable living quarters at the present time.

WAS GOOD CIRCUS

Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Appeared
Here Last Thursday. Exhibition
Pleases Large Crowds.

The Carl Hagenbeck & Great Wallace Shows appeared in this city last Thursday. Two performances were given, afternoon and evening. At the afternoon show it is estimated that at least five thousand people were in attendance.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Show is first class in every particular and presents one of the best and cleanest circus performances ever seen in Rhinelander. Everything pertaining to the circus is conducted on a systematic order and during the entire two hour's show there was not a break or lurch which might tend to mar the high quality of the exhibition. The performers were artists in their various lines. The aerial and acrobatic work could not be equalled.

The clowns were unusually funny and kept the audience in continual good humor with their laughable
"stunts" and antics.

One excellent feature of the performance was the trained animal exhibition. In the centre of the big tent was a steel barred arena where lions, tigers, leopards, and polar bears went through feats that one would think impossible for these animals to do. The beasts were wonderfully trained and displayed almost human intelligence. One act that was a thriller, and held the audience in suspense, was when the trainer thrust his head into the open jaws of a monster lion. Every time that the man does this daring act he endangers his life.

The two herds of performing elephants were also well trained. Two teams of trained zebras gave an exhibition in one ring. The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus has some of the finest horses in the world. These horses, both the draft and ring stock,
are well groomed and in first class condition. The animals receive the best of care and the management will not tolerate the teamsters abusing them. The whip is seldom used.

The menagerie was an interesting feature. Many rare wild animals were on exhibition and a visit to this department gave one a fine lesson in natural history.

The circus went from here to Ironwood where it exhibited, Friday.

To the New North representative
the management expressed themselves as highly pleased with the patronage received here, claiming that it came far above their expectations.

CONGRESSMAN MORSE RETURNS.

Congressman A. E. Morse and wife returned last week from Washington. Before their return they spent a few days in Richmond, Va., and from there came home by the way of Niagara Falls.

Mr. Morse, although a new member, got quite a number of bills passed of special interest to this section. Mr. Morse has not grown any larger since his sojourn in Washington, D. C., and does not fail to recognize all his old friends. He has engaged a room in the Albers-Molle building, still retaining his position in the Morse & Tradewell Co., where he will attend to his congressional work as well as receive calls of his many friends.—Antigo News Item.

TRAMPS STEAL BEER.

A half a barrel of beer was stolen
from a box car standing on the team
track in the Northwestern freight yards, Tuesday morning.

The theft was committed by a party of six men, strangers in the city and who had every appearance of being genuine tramps. After removing the beer from the car, the gang took the keg to the banks of the Wisconsin River where they proceeded to tap the same and make merry. Here they were discovered and placed under arrest by Chief of Police Straub.

Upon being arraigned in Municipal Court the men were found guilty and received sentences ranging from three to thirty days in jail.

Many characters of the hobo type have made their appearance in Rhinelanders this spring but the police have seen that they did not tarry here long. This is the first offense reported to have been committed by their kind.

ANOTHER OLD NEWSPAPER.

Last week we made mention of a newspaper owned by Con Lynch containing the account of Lincoln's assassination. Since then Claude Shepard informs us that he has in his possession a copy of an Eastern newspaper which contains the news of George Washington's funeral. Although the paper is yellow with age, yet it is plainly printed and can be easily read. On each side of the paper is a heavy black border and the column rules are turned in mourning for the Nation's first president. The old paper was given to the Shepard
family many years ago, by Claude's grandfather, and is a relic highly prized.

DEFEATED AT ASHLAND.

The base ball game at Ashland, Sunday, resulted in the defeat of the Rhinelanders team by a score of 15 to 0. The boys have nothing to say regarding the outcome and make no excuses for their defeat. The fact remains, however, that Rhinelanders was handicapped by the loss of two of their best players who missed the train. Next Sunday, June 28th, Antigo will play the local team at the fair grounds. Antigo has one of the strongest amateur teams in the state and a good game is looked for.

ECLIPSE OF SUN.

An eclipse of the sun, Sunday June 28th, will be visible in every portion of the United States. The eclipse will be due to the passage of the moon between the earth and the sun.
The eclipse will begin in the morning about 9:30 o'clock. When it is at its height about one-half of the sun's surface will be covered. It will continue about three hours.

GO TO SUPERIOR.

Several members of the Rhinelander lodge of Eagles went to Superior, yesterday morning, to attend the state convention of the order. There was attached to the north bound Northwestern train a special car containing Eagles from cities south of here. The Rhinelander delegation helped to swell the number considerably. Free fare was offered to all members who desired to go.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

City Clerk Svedberg has received up to the present time twenty-four applications for liquor licenses. This number will be increased before July 1st, as several days yet remain in which applications may be received.

PANTHER ROAMS WOODS

Escaped Beast Haunts Forest Near Manson. Raids Farms and Kills Deer.

Woodsmen say that in the neighborhood of Manson, a few miles west of here on the Soo road, a large panther makes his haunts. The beast has been seen on several occasions and numerous attempts have been made to capture or kill him but with no success. It is said that the animal is very bold and a few nights ago broke into a farmer's pig sty and carried off a large hog—which he killed and partly devoured a few yards from the house. This is thought to be the same panther that was seen several years ago near Mercer.

During the appearance of a circus
in a northern Wisconsin city, some years ago, a panther escaped from the menagerie and was never captured.
The animal has since been seen in different sections of the state but has never before made his appearance in Oneida county.

Nels Olson, who lives near Heat-
ford Junction was in Rhinelanders, Monday. He said that a few nights recently, while he and his eldest son were returning from a fishing trip they encountered the beast in the woods not far from the house. The panther was in a crouching position and appeared as though he was about to attack them. Young Olson had a revolver from which he fired two shots at the animal, but missed.
With a howl which echoed dully
through the woods, the brute bounced into the under brush. Mr.
Olson has lately found partly eaten carcasses of several deer which he thinks were killed by the panther.
The farmers in that section are thinking of forming a posse for the purpose of killing the animal if possible.

MARRIED.

Miss Maud Matteson of Gagen and Ross E. Bryant of Hazelhurst were married yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Grant Clark of the Congregational church and took place at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Bryant on North Pelham St.
They were attended by Miss Mabel Bryant, sister of the groom and Clarence Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant departed on the Soo limited train this morning for Minneapolis where they will be the guests of the bride's sister, Mrs.
Ed. Smith.

The young couple are well known in Rhinelanders and have many friends here. They will make their home at Hazelhurst where Mr. Bryant has charge of his father's interests.

This evening at Vicksburg, Mississippi, Geo. S. Kelley, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Kelley of this city, will be united in marriage to Miss Lucy Paxton of Vicksburg. The ceremony will take place at eight o'clock. The groom spent his boy-hood in this city and has a host of friends here who extend congratulations to him and his bride. The young people will make their home at Monroe, La., where for the last three years Mr. Kelley has been engaged in the concrete business.

Miss Mae Anson of Merrill was married last Wednesday June 17th to Francis Edmund Donoghue of Chil-cago. The ceremony took place at Jesu church Milwaukee, and was followed by a wedding breakfast at Hotel Pilsner.

CONVENTION NOTES.

Secretary of War William H. Taft was nominated for the presidency on the first ballot in the Republican national convention at Chicago, receiving 702 votes. Then, amid scenes of wild enthusiasm, the delegates elected Taft as their choice for the presidency.

For 15 minutes the delegates and spectators in the Republican national convention wildly cheered for President Roosevelt. The vast throng in the Coliseum was crazy with enthusiasm and some people feared that the threatened Roosevelt stampede was about to take place. The demonstration was started by Senator Lodge's speech as permanent chairman. The credentials committee reported, seating all the Taft delegates, and the convention voted down the proposition to reduce the representation of southern states in future conventions.

At an all night session of the credentials committee of the Republican national convention 110 contests brought by the "allies" were considered, the decisions being in favor of the Taft adherents. A sub-committee of the resolutions committee labored over the platform, modifying many of the plank. Gov. Cummins of Iowa became the leading candidate for the vice-presidential nomination, with Fairbanks a close second.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET

For President.

For Vice-President.

TAFT AS PRESIDENT; SHERMAN FOR MATE, IS REPUBLICAN SLATE

Convention at Chicago Selects National Ticket and Adjourns--Wild Enthusiasm on Nomination of Ohioan--Demonstration for Theodore Roosevelt

Chicago. — Taft and Sherman. This is the ticket of the Republican party slung to the breeze Friday as the Republican national convention concluded with the nomination of James S. Sherman of New York for vice-president amid a final roar of tumultuous demonstration.

Scene of Wild Enthusiasm. The picture within the walls of the vast amphitheater as the presidential candidate was named Thursday was one truly gradiose in its magnitude. In front, to the right and left, below and above, the billowing sea of humanity, restless after hours of waiting, and stirred from one emotion to another, was in a fever of expectancy for the culminating vote. The favorite sons of other states had been named, save Knox and La Follette, and now on the roll came Ohio.

As the Buckeye state was reached, the tall, gaunt form of Theodore E. Burton, with student-like face and severe black clerical garb, advanced to the platform to nominate Ohio's candidate. He spoke fervently, with the ringing voice of an evangelist, while ringing through the great building. The close of his speech of nomination was the signal for loudest cheering. The long heat-up feeding of the Taft legions. Instantly the Ohio delegates were on their feet, other Taft states following, while the convention hosts, in gallery and on floor, broke into mad demonstration. For 10, 15, 20 minutes, this uproar continued. At last the third voices died down to a hoarse shout, and subsided.

Seconded by Knight. This roll now gave the opportunity for the speech seconding Taft's nomination, by George H. Knight of California, his big, round face beaming forth on the sympathetic multitude, and his splendid baritone voice welling forth like the tones of a great church organ. California's tribute to Taft was brief and fervid. Now there was another bid in the Taft movement, while the remaining candidates were placed in nomination.

It was late in the afternoon before the convention, now literally sweltering with the intense heat and weary after nearly seven hours of continuous session, reached the end of the flood of eloquence and the decks were at last cleared for the culminating act.

Demonstration for La Follette. But, no; just as the last swell of oratory, the seconding speech for La Follette, had died away, like a cyclone from a clear sky burst a La Follette demonstration which swept the convention from its very bearings. That had greeted Roosevelt Wednesday had been greeted Tuesday before, intense and maddening with the vital ring of genuine enthusiasm. It seemed as though Wisconsin had suddenly peopled every foot of the galleries. The delegates sat calm and waiting, except the frantic Wisconsin, but the convention for the time being was in the possession of the galleries.

Now a singular transformation occurred — gradually the whirlwind veered from La Follette to Roosevelt. The Chinese colleges for teachers. That tips are wages has been decided by the appeals court of England. The case came before it in a claim made under the workmen's compensation act, in behalf of a waiter who was accidentally killed in a dining car. It was contended by his dependents that the true basis of reckoning was the man's wages plus his tips. The lower court denied this, but an appeal it held that tips are to be regarded as wages "when the giving and receiving of them are open and notorious."

Amid this pandemonium, and with the galleries in full control, Chairman Lodge decided upon heroic action in order again to make the convention master of its affairs. He ordered the roll call of states to begin for the vote on president. Such a call, under such circumstances of intense confusion, has probably never before occurred in the history of national conventions. The secretary was powerless to make his call of the states heard above the deafening clamor. Seizing a megaphone, he shouted the roll of states—Alabama, Arkansas, but his voice was swallowed up in the mad uproar. Gradually, however, the curiosity of the multitude conquered their enthusiasm, and they lapsed into silence to hear the result of the roll call.

A hush of expectancy hung over the assembly as the roll proceeded. Hasty summaries showed that Taft was reached the Taft column totaled 427. Ohio carried the Taft total to 511, or 20 more than enough to nominate. Still the roll went on until the final result was announced by Chairman Lodge.

"For Theodore Roosevelt, 3 votes; for Joseph H. Foraker of Ohio 16 for Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, 40 votes; for Joseph Cannon of Illinois, 61 votes; for Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, 25 votes; for Charles E. Hughes of New York, 63 votes; for Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, 68 votes, and William H. Taft of Ohio, 702 votes.

A great shout went up as Lodge concluded his announcement, and with one accord the cohorts of Cannon and Knox and Hughes and the other winners, joined in a common tribute to the candidate of the party.

Renomination for Second Place. The renomination for the vice-presidency was not made until Friday. When the convention adjourned for the day Thursday the situation regarding second place on the ticket was decidedly unsettled, but before the delegates met Friday an arrangement had been perfected for the Taft delegates to support Representative James S. Sherman of New York as the running mate of the secretary of war.

Three names were placed in nomination when the chairman announced that nominations were in order. Sherman was chosen New York's choice by Tim Woodruff, former lieutenant governor of the state; Gov. Curtis Guild of Massachusetts was placed in nomination by Senator Lodge, and Ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy of New Jersey was named by Thomas N. McCarter. Several brief seconding speeches were made for each candidate.

When the roll call was begun it was soon seen that Sherman was the popular choice of the delegates. When enough votes had been cast to insure his nomination Senator Crane of Massachusetts moved that it be made unanimous and it was carried with a shout of approval.

The usual motions of acknowledgment to the officers of the convention and to the city in which it was held were then passed.

Decided That Tips Are Wages.

That tips are wages has been decided by the appeals court of England. The case came before it in a claim made under the workmen's compensation act, in behalf of a waiter who was accidentally killed in a dining car. It was contended by his dependents that the true basis of reckoning was the man's wages plus his tips. The lower court denied this, but an appeal it held that tips are to be regarded as wages "when the giving and receiving of them are open and notorious."

Judson W. Lyon of Georgia was recognized to make the motion to adjourn without day. It was put into effect at 11:47 a. m. The band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," the delegates rapidly left the hall and the convention of 1908 had made its way into history.

Roosevelt Demonstration. The second day of the Republican national convention brought the long expected Roosevelt yell, a whirlwind of enthusiasm which raged with the vast amphitheater of the Coliseum for full 45 minutes Wednesday, and for a time presented to the timid the specter of a Roosevelt stampede.

This demonstration was decidedly the feature of a day otherwise notable for a stirring speech from the permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, for much practical procedure in placing the convention on a smooth running basis, and for the final defeat of the southern states at future national conventions.

Mr. Lodge early in his address launched his sentence which electrified the assembly into its first real demonstration of wild enthusiasm. "The president," exclaimed Mr. Lodge, "is the best abused and most popular man in the United States today."

This was the long awaited signal. Instantly a shout broke from the galleries and was echoed back from the floor, at first only a tongue of delirious yell, and then gradually gathering force and volume, until it swelled to a whirlwind of sound and motion, as delegates and spectators rose en masse, mounting chairs, waving banners, hats, handkerchiefs, flags, newspapers, anything which could be seized upon to add turbulence to the scene.

PLATFORM AT A GLANCE.

Roosevelt.—The abuse of wealth, the tyranny of power, and the evils of privilege and favoritism have been put to rest by the election of Roosevelt.

Anti-injunction.—The Republican party will uphold the authority of the courts, but believes the rules of procedure in federal courts with respect to injunctions should be made more accurate by statute, and that no injunction should be issued without notice.

Labor.—The common sense policy will be pursued to lighten the burdens of all who toil.

Tariff.—The Republican party declares for a revision of tariff by a special session of congress. We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates.

Money.—An expanding commerce and increasing crop movements disclose the need of a more elastic and adaptable system.

Trusts.—The government should have greater supervision over corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

Inland Waterways.—We call for a large and comprehensive plan to improve the waterways, harbors, and great lakes.

Army and Navy.—While the American people do not desire and will not provoke a war with any other country, we nevertheless declare our devotion to a policy which will keep this republic ready at all times to defend her traditional doctrines.

Good Roads.—We approve the efforts of the agricultural department in good road construction.

Negroes.—We condemn all devices for the disfranchisement of the negro.

Republican Policy.—The difference between Democracy and Republicanism is the difference between vacillation and timidity in government, the other for strength and purpose. Democracy would have the nation owned by the people, while Republicanism would have the people own the nation.

TAKES CHILD FROM GUARDIAN.

Kenosha Father Forcibly Takes His Little Daughter Away.

Kenosha.—George N. Bliss, general manager for an automobile company in Chicago and a man widely known among automobile manufacturers and sportsmen caused a sensation here when he took his daughter, Geraldine Bliss, five years old, from the arms of her grandfather, Robert A. Wilson. The seizure of the child took place on the main street of Kenosha, just at the close of a church service, which the father and grandfather had attended and in which the little girl had taken a prominent part. Mr. Wilson had just left the church with the little girl in his arms when the father slipped up and grasped the child and hurried away with her. Mr. Wilson attempted to assault Bliss and regain the child, but was prevented by others. Mr. Wilson at once appealed to the district attorney for aid in securing a writ of habeas corpus. Both the grandfather and the father secured attorneys and a great fight is on for the custody of the little girl. Mr. Wilson's daughter married Mr. Bliss in Little Creek, Mich. She died five years ago at the birth of the child which is now the bone of contention.

ITALIANS GIVE UP JOBS.

Unwilling to Work on Normal School When Harassed.

La Crosse.—Thoroughly frightened as the result of threats made against them because they took the place of local laborers, the gang of Italians employed on the La Crosse normal school, packed up their effects and returned to Milwaukee. The men were here about a week, being put on to replace local laborers whom the contractors charged with not showing sufficient zeal for the work and they have been constantly annoyed ever since their arrival by sympathizers of the discharged workmen. Shots were fired through the Italians' shanty, the fire, passing within a few feet of the sleeping men. The police were called out but could not find those who prompted the attack.

To Manage Mines at Nome.

Madison.—Col. Calvert Frederic Spensley left for Nome, Alaska, to engage in the mining business. He is the manager and part owner of the Hercules Mining company.

SOCIAL "DEMS" PICK TICKET.

Harvey D. Brown of Kenosha Is Made Choice for Governor.

Milwaukee.—Leaders of the party in the city of Milwaukee are conspicuous by the absence of their names from the state ticket of the Social Democratic party as formed at the closing session of the convention in Frele Gemeinde hall. The platform, before adoption, was given a complete dissection and was the subject of debate. It contains in general the principles upon which the party has stood year after year, although a number of new ideas have been incorporated. In the declaration of principles and several resolutions adopted there is a strong bid for the support of the man on the farm. He is well looked after and the party proposes to virtually set up in business any person who has a longing for agricultural pursuits. Conservation of timber and a more conservative policy in relation to the disposal of state lands are given much attention. The ticket:

For governor—Harvey D. Brown, Kenosha.

For attorney general—H. B. Walmsley, Ashland; Adolph Huebschman, Milwaukee.

Miracle Working Resorts

WILL THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT TRY TO SHUT UP THE MOST FAMOUS CURE IN EUROPE?

BY E. S. MERRIAM

THE GREATEST CENTER OF HEALING ON THE WESTERN CONTINENT
SAINT ANNE DE BEAUPRE, CANADA

HINDU INVALIDS MAKE DESPERATE EFFORTS TO JOURNEY TO THIS BATHING PLACE ON THE GANGES IN INDIA

GOVERNMENT SANITARIUM GROUNDS AT ROTORUA, NEW ZEALAND

ONE of the unsettled questions of this year is whether the most famous health resort in Europe will be forcibly closed, as another episode in the lively war between the French government and the church. Such action has been threatened. If the government does forbid or organize pilgrimages to Lourdes, a little provincial town away up in the southwest corner of the country, at the foot of the Pyrenees mountains, its action will be received with a chorus of protest in all sorts of keys. Devout invalids and their friends will lament in gongolous distress. Hotelkeepers and souvenir vendors, who have been making a good living out of the visits of a quarter of a million pilgrims every year, will growl for reasons of their own. And hardly a railway in France, in spite of having always made special rates on round-trip tickets to the place of cure, will fail to use its own influence for the continuance of so profitable a custom.

No wonder! As many as 40,000 pilgrims have gone to Lourdes in a single August day. The crowds are always biggest in midsummer, though, in fact, there is more or less travel to the shrine all the year round.

The treatment at Lourdes is more through the spirit than through the flesh—that is to say, prayers—not medicine nor surgery—are the main dependence, though the water of a spring in the Virgin's Grotto is eagerly quaffed by invalids and used for bathing suffering bodies. And the poor souls who go there are often in wretched condition; many of them have to be carried or helped about by relatives or nurses. A good many of the attendants are well-to-do women, who volunteer for a certain number of days or weeks, tending without any payment. Doctors are always on hand, too, but only to examine cases and record results. The treatment is not in their hands. They look with skeptical or puzzled wonder at the immense numbers who go away apparently well, after a few days' share in the very picturesque devotions of the place.

Comparatively few Americans go to Lourdes, but there is within 24 hours' journey of New York another miracle-working resort, second only to the French shrine in point of popularity. It is at the little Canadian village of Beaupre, on the left bank of the St. Lawrence river, a few miles below Quebec, or rather it would be more correct to say that the village is at the church of St. Anne de Beaupre, for the shrine is the only reason for the existence of the village, with its half-mile of convents, 700 shops.

In another. Only a distinctly elderly person can have known Saratoga Springs in its palmy days as the greatest health resort of the east. Its supremacy of prestige long ago passed away. The Hot Springs of Arkansas are still largely frequented, but more and more people are turning to places of comparatively recent vogue, like the sulphur baths of Colorado, the sea-beaches of southern California, or the high, dry plateau camps of Arizona, where the sun makes the only outside application and clean, dry air constitutes the only dose to be swallowed.

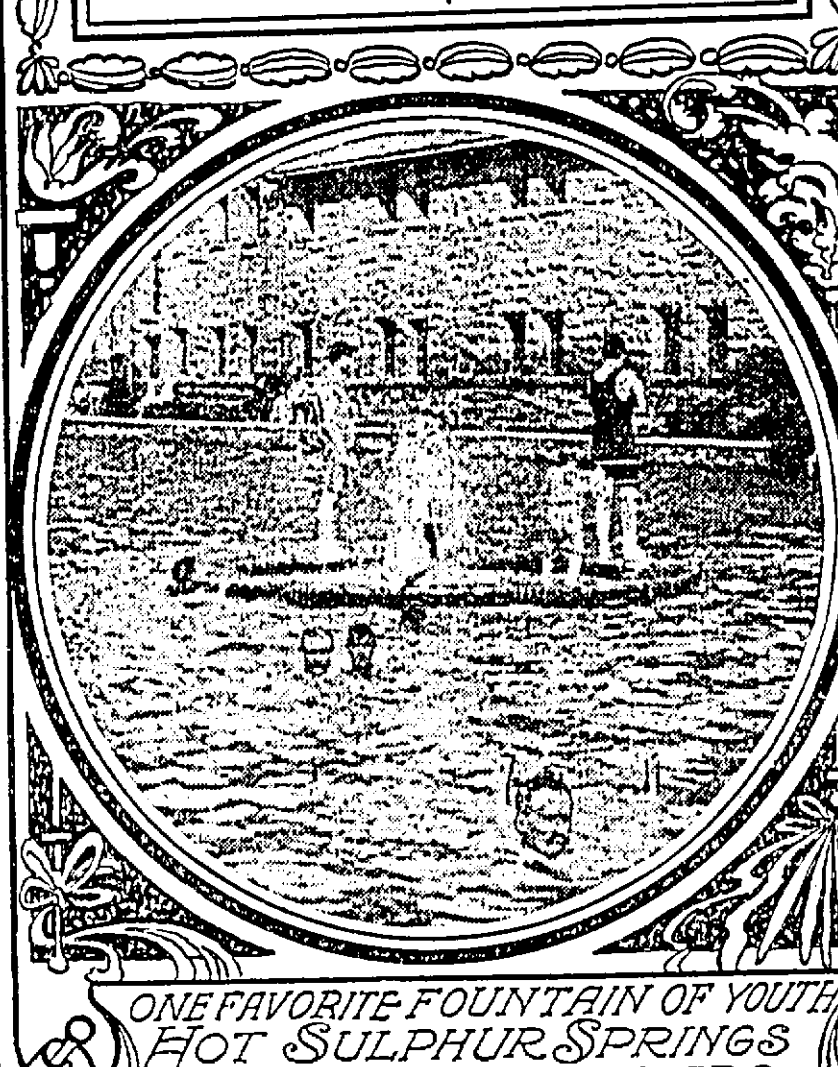

If an invalid has money enough, he usually turns to Europe. J. Pierpont Morgan thinks Aix-les-Bains is the place of all others for undoing the effects of strenuous life on Wall Street. Queen Victoria used to have a fondness for the Riviera, and spent months regaining strength and serene joy in a sunny villa on a flowery mountain-side at Mentone. Edward VII. some years ago "discovered" the Riheland resort at Homburg, so far as English visitors were concerned. The place had been fairly popular before that with the Germans themselves, but after the (then) prince of Wales found its spring water a panacea for liver trouble and indigestion, troops of moneyed Britons had indigestion, too, and the place became almost as much English as German. Of late years Great Britain's arbiter of fashion has largely transferred his affections to Marienbad, and, naturally enough, that Austrian mountain village is now a sort of Mecca for those who suffer from the same unromantic ail as the British sovereign, namely, overweight.

By enthusiasts that the fountain of youth, which a sixteenth century Spaniard sought in Florida, is really bubbling up at Marienbad. Middle-aged persons with undesirable waist measures are confidently encouraged to believe that the Marienbad regimen, if "followed faithfully," will restore long-lost slenderness and grace. But it is not an easy regimen. This miracle must be earned. You rise at six a. m. or earlier, dress and go out, fasting, to the promenade, where other early risers are flocking to the springs. A king, a grand duke, a Parisian butterfly, a Chicago business man, no matter what your worldly estate may be, you meekly drink a certain prescribed quantity of spring water and walk up and down long, tree-shaded promenades to the encouraging accompaniment of a really fine band concert. Sometimes you slip your dose as you walk along. Even if it rains, your devotions to the goddess of health must be duly paid, though the walking may be done under cover in a long colonnade. The prescribed distance accomplished, you go to breakfast—literally to break your fast, but (if you take the thing conscientiously) by no means to feast. Diet is supposed to be strictly ordered and limited, but as the flesh is often weak, though the spirit be ever so willing, some pilgrims to Marienbad sell their purpose, as Esau, his pilgrims, for good things to eat, and go away as portly as ever, to complain that, in spite of spring-water drinks and baths, the cure isn't what it is cracked up to be!

The other famous health resorts on the continent are usually more or less like Marienbad, though some are on a much larger scale. Aix, Spa, Wiesbaden, Karlsbad, Baden Baden, each has its specialty promised, or at least resorted to, cure to attract the afflicted. The winter resorts in the Engadine valley, away up on a lofty shoulder of the Alps, just above the Italian frontier, hold out the hope of a new lease of life for sufferers from lung diseases, and the popularity of St. Moritz, Davos and other Swiss towns in that vicinity is increasing at a tremendous rate. People have a good time there, too, if they are at all equal to active sports, for skating, coasting, tobogganing, ski-running and every sort of snow fun are so much in vogue one would almost think staid, grown-up men and women really had found the fountain of youth up there among the ice-sheeted mountains.

"Newest England," as a recent writer cleverly called New Zealand, is ahead of Europe and America in so many lines of political and social interests, one is prepared to find it also well toward the front in the matter of considerations for public health. A large district in the beautiful mountain region which they call the "Switzerland of the Pacific" is reserved for public benefit, and the government itself maintains an exceedingly attractive health resort near the famous geysers. Only, as New Zealand is about as far south of the equator as Italy is north of it, with Christmas set in midsummer, the reverse of our, with Christmas set in midsummer. That turns the calendar of a health resort, like Rotorna, upside down; but health comes, all the same, and the wearied makers of New England go back to town refreshed and braced up for another year of business, politics and sport.

WHEN GRANDMA'S RHEUMATISM IS BAD IN JAPAN SHE STROKES THIS BRONZE BULL ON THE PLACE WHERE IT HURTS

Oriental people take to the occult as ducks to water. It is not surprising to find lower-class Chinese and Japanese resorting to marvel-working centers of one sort and another to drive away sickness. The degree of education reached by the individual makes a great difference there, just as it does here. As the whole world knows, Japanese surgeons and trained nurses are second to none in the whole world in their practical skill. On the other hand, a large constituency of common people cling to the curious superstitions of their own. In the garden of the Shinto Temple of Kiyomizu Tenjin, at Kyoto, there is a certain favorite image of a bronze bull, which many believe will cure all sorts of aches and pains if a person where they are ailing. The treatment has at least the merit of being simple and cheap, and there are plenty of old women in Kyoto ready to testify that it is efficacious, too.

If you are inclined to think contemptuously of pagan granny in Japan, remember how many people you yourself have known who rap on wood whenever they mention that they haven't had a bad cold all winter! We do not average so far ahead of the east, after all.

The very oldest of the world's resorts for marvelous cures is in India, at Benares. Compared with the prestige of that spot on the left bank of the Ganges, even the most time-honored resort in Europe or America is a mere fad of today. The great German scholar, Max Muller, who devoted years to the study of oriental thought, once declared: "When Babylon was an upstart, contending with lordly Nineveh, and the early Jewish heroes and kings were welding the Israelitish tribes into a nation, while Athens was hardly more than a name, and Rome not yet thought of, hither tolled streams of wretched pilgrims. And to Benares they are still tolling, bigger than the tide of grace, 1908. India is considerably bigger than the whole United States, so that the distances to be traversed are often hundreds of miles, but at the very time when this article is being written sick folk from every part of the land are making slow, painful journeys on foot to the reach that particular place on the Ganges where the gods have cured so many ailing ones. Swarms of pilgrims constantly file the river-side temples and line the ghats where each other on the bank. Clean and filthy stand side by side waist deep in the ill-smelling water, taking it up in their hands, snuffing it up their nostrils, in sublime indifference to the fact that only ten feet away a corpse is soaking in the same holy water, preparatory for the funeral pyre, and that many dogs are wading in the same feld bath, on indescribable errands of their own. British authorities say that, while great numbers of cures are claimed to be worked at Benares, the place is actually one of the worst distributing centers of germ diseases in the whole empire.

The newest American resort for the healing of mankind's ills is, as most people have recently heard, a Protestant Episcopal church in Boston, until lately regarded as a stronghold of conservatism. The work is intentionally limited to certain lines, especially to functional troubles like nervous prostration and hysteria.

The treatment is a combination of spiritual inspiration and encouragement, with up-to-date twentieth-century medical science, and therefore differs fundamentally from "Christian Science," which puts a taboo on the educated physician. It is announced that the work begun in Boston is to be taken up and developed by certain churches in New York, where the still higher tension at which people live makes nervous disorders even more prevalent. Maybe we have here the establishment of new shrines of healing, even more far-reaching in their influence than those already famous. Time will tell.

OUTLAW LEAGUES NOT PROFITABLE

PROMOTERS OF EASTERN HAVE TROUBLE KEEPING PRESENT ORGANIZATION IN LINE.

SUSPENSION IS LIKELY SOON

Men Refuse to Play Because of Failure to Receive Salaries—Breaking Baseball Law Does Not Pay—Case of "Rube" Waddell, Eccentric American League Twirler.

Breaking the law, even in baseball, does not pay. This has been demonstrated again in the failure of the Eastern Outlaw league to pay expenses. This league is in the worst kind of circumstances financially, and its suspension will not surprise the public. Players on different teams have refused to play because they were not paid for their services, and the past week few of the scheduled games in that circuit were played on this account.

An outlaw league must necessarily be composed of players who refused to obey the law in the league operating under the rules of the national baseball commission. Some of these players possibly had grievances which justified their jumping law-abiding organizations and joining an outlaw body, but the majority of them have jumped because they wanted higher salaries than the teams they were with were able to pay, or because of some grievance which was decided in favor of the team by the national commission. The commission generally gives just and fair decisions, and few players have good reasons for leaving any organized circuit.

A player who will jump an organized league to play with outlaws is generally a man who is hard to handle in any league. He is generally a disorganizer, and is the worst kind of a man to have on any team. A disorganizer costs the other players down on the management, and many a good club has lost a pennant because a disorganizer was connected with it and the players would not play together.

Take the case of "Rube" Waddell, one of the best pitchers in the American league. He has played with Detroit, Philadelphia and St. Louis in that circuit, and recently tried to jump to the outlaw league, which is now on the "hummer." Fans ask why the Tigers and Athletics let the veteran twirler go, but if each fan was a Hutzey Jennings or a Connie Mack he would not be asking the question. Monte Cross can tell you why, if you are in doubt. Waddell was sold to Philadelphia by Detroit because he kept the Tigers in a disorganized state. That team never played the ball it now does when Rube Waddell was with it. At Philadelphia he got the players down on hitting so that they would not have anything to do with him, and some even went so far as to refuse to speak to him at any time. When he was on a barnstorming trip at the end of one season—and Monte Cross was with the team—Waddell made so much trouble for his teammates that they refused to continue the trip unless Waddell was sent back home, and he was given his money and returned to Philadelphia, the team continuing on the trip. Finally Connie Mack saw that he would have to sell "Rube" in order to have harmony on the team, and sold him to St. Louis. Many thought Mack was foolish to let "Rube" go, but if they understood conditions they would say that he ought to be out of baseball altogether. He has been with St. Louis hardly long enough to get acquainted with the players and wanted to jump to the outlaw league.

This is the kind of men who play in outlaw leagues. What fan wants to see that class of men play baseball? When such a player is with an outlaw league he will jump from one team to the other without a moment's notice and leaves the team without a moment to fill his place. This costs the teams a great deal of money in getting new players, and they are always disorganized because they are fighting each other to gain possession of the best men.

The salary question is another thing which breaks outlaw leagues. Players leave organized baseball because they can get higher salaries in the outlaw organizations. This forces the outlaws to pay such high salaries that they cannot pay expenses. The smaller towns of the circuit always have the poorest team because they are the lowest priced.

No organization, whether it be in baseball or anything else, can be properly and successfully operated unless it has laws governing it. If managers in baseball circuits are not protected so that they can retain their players and are not being compelled to continually buy new men, they cannot succeed because their trouble in keeping players will eat up the gate receipts. The public never strongly favored outlaw baseball, and it should stand against it, being taught by the failure of the different circuits of that character that breaking the law of baseball, like breaking the law of the land, does not pay.

THE GENERAL RECEIVER.

YOU'RE TOO THIN.

Even Slight Catarrhal Derangements of the Stomach Produce Acid Fermentation of the Food.

It's Stomach Catarrh

Some people are thin and always remain thin, from temperamental reasons. Probably in such cases nothing can be done to change this personal peculiarity.

But there are a large number of people who get thin, or remain thin, who naturally would be plump and fleshy but for some digestive derangement. Thin people lack in adipose tissue. Adipose tissue is chiefly composed of fat.

Fat is derived from the oily constituents of food.

The fat-making foods are called by the physiologist, hydrocarbons. This class of foods are not digested in the stomach at all. They are digested in the duodenum, the division of the alimentary canal just below the stomach.

The digestion of fat is mainly, if not wholly, the work of the pancreatic juice. This juice is of alkaline reaction, and is rendered inert by the addition of acid. A hyperacidity of the digestive fluids of the stomach passing down into the duodenum, destroys the pancreatic fluid for digestive purposes. Therefore, the fats are not digested or emulsified, and the system is deprived of its due proportion of oily constituents. Hence, the patient grows thin.

The beginning of the trouble is a catarrhal condition of the stomach which causes hyperacidity of the gastric juices. This hyperacidity is caused by fermentation of food in the stomach. When the food is taken into the stomach, if the process of digestion does not begin immediately, acid fermentation will take place. This creates a hyperacidity of the stomachic juices which in their turn prevent the pancreatic digestion of the oils, and the emulsion results.

A dose of Peruna before each meal hastens the stomach digestion. By hurrying digestion, Peruna prevents fermentation of the contents of the stomach, and the pancreatic juices thus preserved in its normal state. It then only remains for the patient to eat a sufficient amount of fat-forming foods, and the thinness disappears and plumpness takes its place.

"You are a coward!" said Mrs. Stubb, firmly.

"Why do you say that, Maria?" asked Mr. Stubb, nervously.

"Why, you told me that you were not afraid of anything that walked in shoe leather, and I just saw you jump at the sound of a mouse."

"Well—er—Maria, mice don't wear shoe leather."

WHY MARRIAGE SEEMS A FAILURE

BY (Miss) DORA MAY MORRELL

WHETHER marriage be absolutely a failure or not is something to be decided only by those who have tried it, and I am no feminine Don Quixote, tilting against windmills. I am simply an observer, seeing happy marriages, and unhappy, and sometimes finding what is evident to all except the persons most concerned, "the little rift within the lute," which has made its music mute.

It might be said at the outset that the fact of making all over the world if marriage is a failure is not proof that it is a success, nor is the excellence of an institution proved by the few cases but by the many. The few that prove the possibility of success where there is more often but slight measure of it.

No one who has considered the matter thoughtfully can doubt that marriage at its best is the perfect life, ideal in its relations and in its development of the best type of man and woman, but, unfortunately, that a thing may be is not the same as that it is.

To an outsider, one of the strongest arguments against matrimony is the number of those who try to get out of it. Being tied is in itself a condition trying to an erratic temperament, for you are never so eager to get away as when you know you can't.

I have watched devoted lovers grow into indifferent partners, and also have seen most beautiful marriages grow from rather commonplace beginnings, so the advance stage seems not much of an indication what the future will give.

One of my girl friends said to me of her fiancé: "I am not one of the silly girls who cannot see faults in those they care for. I can see them all the plainer because I love, and though I have hunted very hard for them, I can't see a fault in Joe, and so I know he hasn't got any." She and Joe got married and went their loving way. Some years later I met her, and in the course of conversation she surprised me by saying: "No, of course I don't tell Joe everything, the way I used to. Men are so stupid they never understand, so it is foolish to tell them and get into a fuss."

"Do they grow stupid after marriage?" "Well, they may not, but they seem to. Why, Joe nearly went wild over the most innocent letter that I sent him, and he happened to find I've sent the most certain and again never to bring my letters to the table, but to put them in my bureau drawer, but she is so careless. One often has letters she doesn't wish her husband to see, bills and things of that sort."

Now, it is hard for me to imagine marriage a success in which one party to the contract has such a feeling as that. Marriage, it seems to me, is one of two things, either a business contract, or a union founded upon sentiment, and if decent enters into it one party or the other is not living up to the agreement, however smoothly things may seem to go. If it is a business concern, each partner has a right to the confidence of the other, and so long as sentiment enters into it there will be the same interchange of interests between married couples as between the engaged. The rule holds as good whether applied to man or to woman.

Another of my friends loves her husband devotedly, she says. She has no secrets from him—nor from anybody else—not even those she ought to have, for perfect faith does not necessitate telling a man every foolish little thing, nor passing on to him something some girl friend has said to her. When of an evening her husband sits on his cot to go out this wife begins: "Why, Harry, are you going out this evening? Where are you

IMPORTED BREAD IN ENGLAND

In a statement presented to the British parliament it appears that in 1906 the imports of wheat and wheat flour into the United Kingdom were 75 per cent. of the total supply. In Germany the imports in 1905 were 35 per cent. and in France in 1906 three per cent. of the total supply.

It was stated that in the United Kingdom in 1905 imported supplies were, of meat, about 47 per cent.; of butter, 67 per cent., and of cheese, 61 per cent. of the total consumption. For France the latest returns relate to 1892, and in that year the imports of meat were three per cent. of the total supply.

In Germany in 1906, under the old tariff, the imports of meat were 11 per cent. of the total consumption. The United States has a considerable exportation of all these commodities.

The imports of wheat and wheat flour into the United Kingdom in 1906 were: From British possessions, 58,462,000 bushels, valued at $60,000,000, and from foreign countries 129,330,000 bushels, valued at $132,000,000. The quantity of wheat grown in the United Kingdom in 1906 was 64,123,000 bushels, of which probably 85 to 90 per cent. was directly used for food by the people.—Kansas City Star.

from the girl's dream, yet she never blames herself for any part of the failure. Still, as she could speak before me and her children with this lack of courtesy to the man whom she had sworn before God to love and honor, she may not be wholly free from fault. Should you, perhaps, lovers, call the marriage in which such a failure was a common occurrence, a success or a failure?

In the course of my wanderings to and fro I have often spent some time at a house where there never has been a meal finished without some fault-finding by the master of the house. It is not due to ill-cooked food, for the wife prepares good dishes and sees that the cook does likewise. If the chicken is broiled, "Why didn't you fry this?" If it is fried, "Why wasn't it broiled?" Or perhaps the complaint will be that the chicken was cooked at all when he wanted fish. The vegetables were always over or under done; something that he wanted and had not spoken about had not been prepared. Maybe it would be: "I've been trying ever since I was married to teach Polly to make bread, but it seems impossible for her to get it into her head," and the bread is as light and sweet as bread ought to be. Heaven help the woman whose husband thinks he can cook, and help her doubly if at the same time he has the grumbling habit!

If you sat at the table three times daily to such remarks, you dear little bride of the future, what would life be worth to you? Yet this man has been much loved of women and has made three wives happy—or miserable?—well, conscious of a few of their defects, let us say. But to some women it would be bitter bread.

That had that flavor; one would be as comfortable walking on tacks as living with a man who is never satisfied, never praising, but always finding fault.

I have never seen an instance of a very happy marriage when the woman was the bread winner. If the husband were a strong, well man, if a woman makes a home and cares properly for the husband and children within the walls of her house. Whatever she does outside is just so much taken from the strength and thought that belong rightly to the home and its inmates. From the beginning it has been woman's part to care for what the man provided, and this instinct is rooted back many centuries, and is a part of the human race to-day. So surely as it is violated for anything but the greatest need the woman and the man suffer for the violation. She grows to despise the man who does not provide for her—and he loses his self-respect.

The woman who works with all her might to help a man make money, makes a great mistake if she is seeking happiness, for the money is bought at the cost of the character development in tenderness and unselfishness that the man needs and gets when he looks after his wife as he wants to when he marries. It should be some very strong cause that leads her to take from him this right to an unselfish manhood. The woman who makes a true home does more for the man than she does by going into the labor mart, and she cannot do both.

It is true that the happiness of married life depends a good deal upon the woman—more, I think, than upon the man—because her strength lies in just and proper using of the powers of heart and spirit. Of course, men sometimes are trying and dense, but I have seen most unprofitable material made into husbands who were delightful and the envy of women who had not known or cared how to use what was theirs to build with.

One cannot be happy with an unbearably jealous man who suspects his wife at every turn, but the man with minor faults, such as saying "What did you do with the 50 cents I gave you last week?" may be cured by the right handling.

It may be hard to be happy if you have black eyes and hair, when your husband takes pleasure in calling your attention to beauties with blue eyes and golden hair, and tells you how he always admired that style of beauty, but think what a compliment he paid you in preferring you in spite of his fancy for another type of comeliness.

Jealousy, brutality and vulgarity are so strikingly offensive that all the world admits there is no chance for happiness with them, but they wreck few lives comparatively. If marriage is a failure it is not in any great measure because of these, but because it is allowed to become commonplace. Those who keep a touch of romance in their relations do not find wedded bliss a myth. It is well to preserve one's illusions. Beside the loss of all poetry out of the mutual life, another cause for the unhappiness in marriage that makes it seem a failure is lack of courtesy, of the consideration that is given instinctively by the sweetheart who counts it no bore to listen to her lover's stories, nor finds it difficult to laugh at them, though she hears them over and over. From the State Capital

Items of Importance to Wisconsin People, Gleaned at Madison.

Madison.—Gov. Davidson will issue no platform. His renomination will be sought on his administration in the last years. "I shall not announce any platform," said the governor. "Why should I?" When it was suggested that it might not be necessary now that former Mayor Becker was out of the field the governor replied: "I should not have done so had he remained in the race." He says there is little likelihood of there being any other candidate. This is the opinion among the Republicans from the state, who attended the national convention. Senator La Follette will not bring out any one, so his closest friends say, and nowhere else does there seem to be any indication of a fight for the head of the ticket. Opinion has settled down to the accepted fact that the primary, so far as the Republican ticket is concerned, will be a tame affair. It is even suggested that the Republicans may be able to turn the tables on the Democrats this year and unless the latter nominate a state ticket at the July convention, Republicans can invade their caucuses and help nominate a gubernatorial candidate. While this is not taken seriously, it goes to show the feeling.

Big Wisconsin Paper Merger.

By the incorporation of the Neokosa Paper Company of Wisconsin, with a capital of $2,000,000, three paper companies of Wisconsin are merged. The combined interests are the Neokosa Paper Company, the John Edwards Manufacturing Company and the Port Edwards Fiber Company. As a result of the merger of these three concerns the interests of John McNaughton of Appleton, the Patten estate of this city, Thomas Nash and J. B. Nash of Grand Rapids, G. F. Steele of Port Edwards and L. M. Alexander of Milwaukee are merged. The three paper companies thus combined had extensive land and pulp wood holdings, all of which are now to be controlled by the new company. The officers of the company have not as yet been elected, but it is understood that the management will be left in the hands of G. Francis Steele, L. M. Alexander and Thomas Nash. The capacity of the three plants included in the merger follow: Neokosa Paper Company—150,000 pounds of paper, manila and fiber paper; 100,000 pounds of ground wood, and 50,000 pounds of sulphite fiber paper. John Edwards Company—100,000 pounds of paper and 100,000 pounds of ground wood daily. The Port Edwards Company—100,000 pounds of sulphite daily.

Favor General Bank Law.

At the seventh annual convention of the national association of supervisors of state banks, held at St. Paul, a special committee appointed to investigate and report on the question of uniform bank legislation recommended a general banking law similar to that of Wisconsin, with the addition that the state commissioner of banking be authorized to appoint receivers for insolvent banks. New York is the only state in the union where the state banking commissioner has authority to appoint such receivers. In Wisconsin the courts appoint such receivers, entailing delay and large expense. The control of the currency has authority to appoint receivers for insolvent national banks. The committee that submitted the report consists of Commissioner Pierre Jay of Massachusetts, Commissioner John W. Morrison of Pennsylvania, and Commissioner M. C. Bergh of Wisconsin. Commissioner Bergh of Wisconsin responded for the association to the address of welcome delivered by Gov. John Johnson of Minnesota.

Predicts Growth of University.

Dr. Charles R. Van Hise, has completed his first five years as president of the University of Wisconsin. A review of this period shows a most remarkable growth and development of the institution. Five years ago the attendance was 2,870. This year it is 4,013, an increase of 1,143 or 40 per cent. "If the increase of students at the university continues for the next 30 years as for the last five years, there will be the equivalent of that of the more than 10,000 students," predicted President Van Hise, in reviewing the recent growth.

Becker Quits Wisconsin Race.

Because, he says, his father wishes him to take up a business career, former Mayor Becker the other night formally announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. He did not state what business he is to follow.

Appeal to the Governor.

The Beloit council took formal action requesting the governor to investigate reports of the illegal use of money in the election by brewery companies and to ask to have the federal authorities to investigate reports that the naturalization of foreigners had been illegal. The common council held up a printing bill on the ground that the members of the company are holding office, one being on the fire and police board and the other on the library.

Many Cases to Be Heard.

The state railroad commission announced its calendar cases to be heard during the remainder of the month. The total number of cases on this month's calendar was 48, but seven of them had been heard or otherwise disposed of, leaving 42 still unheeded.

To Have Celebration.

Oshkosh.—Oshkosh will have a home-coming celebration August 26, the fifty-fifth anniversary of the incorporation of the city.

Pabst Heirs Must Pay $140,000 Tax.

That the state is entitled to approximately $140,000 inheritance tax on the $4,000 shares of Pabst Brewing company stock, of $1,000,000 book value, which Capt. Frederick Pabst of Milwaukee signed over in a deed of trust to his heirs July 17, 1903, during his last illness, was the decision of Judge W. C. Tarrant. This decision practically sustains that of Probate Judge Carpenter on November 5, 1906, from whose court the Pabst heirs took an appeal. The court fixes the market value of the brewing company stock at $1,150 a share, any one, so his closest friends say, and nowhere else does there seem to be any indication of a fight for the head of the ticket. Opinion has settled down to the accepted fact that the primary, so far as the Republican ticket is concerned, will be a tame affair. It is even suggested that the Republicans may be able to turn the tables on the Democrats this year and unless the latter nominate a state ticket at the July convention, Republicans can invade their caucuses and help nominate a gubernatorial candidate. While this is not taken seriously, it goes to show the feeling.

Begin to Boom the State Fair.

It was announced that Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture has received the first assignment of outdoor advertising matter for the coming state fair and will begin to send it out to the contracting bill-posters in a few days. In outdoor advertising the board will confine itself almost wholly to cloth banners bearing the simple statement that the "Wisconsin State Fair of 1908 will be held on September 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11." The banners are white canvas and the advertising matter is printed in dark blue letters. The board will put up 1,000 banners of 55x100 inches in dimensions and 5,000 banners of 28x56 inches in dimensions.

Brunner Heads Badger Delegates.

State positions awarded Wisconsin men at caucuses at the Republican national convention at Chicago follow: Chairman of Wisconsin delegation—W. C. Brunner, Milwaukee. Member of the Republican national committee—Alfred T. Rogers, Madison. Member of committee on resolutions—J. C. Gagner, Racine. Member of committee on credentials—W. L. Houser, Mondovi. Member of committee on permanent organization—W. H. Kieckhefer, Milwaukee. Member of committee on rules—Henry Lockery, Wausau. Honorary vice-president of convention—Louis Stephenson, Milwaukee. Member of committee to notify the delegates to the convention—J. T. Murphy, Superior. Member of committee to notify nominees for vice-president—Alley E. Peterson, Soldiers Grove.

Storey Gets Continuance.

When his case was called for trial in court Edwin C. Storey, former cashier of the Citizens State bank of Belleville, charged with having embezzled $25,500 of the bank's money and having made false reports to the state commissioner of banking, secured a continuance of two weeks. He asked for a continuance of six weeks on the ground that his health is so poor that he is unable to stand the strain of a trial at present. The state opposed the motion for delay, but the court gave the defendant two weeks in which to furnish a physician's affidavit showing the condition of his health.

Valuations Are Too High.

The state tax commission held a hearing on the question of the assessment of the property of the street railway company of Merrill. The company considers that its property has been valued too high in the preliminary assessment announced a few days ago. The Southern Wisconsin Traction company of Madison was also given a similar hearing. The Milwaukee companies have not yet asked for a hearing on the tentative valuations placed on their property. No such hearings will probably be held after July 1.

Raise Capital Stock to $9,000,000.

Announcement was made that the Wisconsin Telephone company will on August 1, issue new stock to the extent of $1,500,000, the cash to be used for improvements and extensions in Wisconsin. Every share already has been engaged by the present shareholders and will be issued to them at par. This will place the total capital stock at $9,000,000.

Rockford Road Hearing.

O. S. Hallies and P. M. Ellis, vice-president and general manager, respectively, of the Rockford and Interurban Railroad company, called on the state tax commissioner and arranged for a hearing on the question of the valuation of the property of the company in this state, which the commission has tentatively fixed at $325,000. The two railroad officials also conferred with the state railroad commission regarding reports required from their company and rulings of the commission on several questions.

Following the unveiling, the monument was formally presented to the city of Milwaukee by Christian Steger, Mayor David S. Rose accepted the memorial in behalf of the city in a brief speech.

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF FORM.

PASSING OF GRAND ARMY

Commander Martin of Wisconsin at Racine Refers to Approach of End—Much Interest in Meeting.

Racine.—The forty-second annual G. A. R. encampment of Wisconsin was one of the best attended in the history of the organization. There were the representatives of the Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief corps and G. A. R. ladies, which swelled the total to nearly 2,000 visitors. A score or more old soldiers narrowly escaped being killed in a runaway, one of their number, Peter Thomas, of the local G. A. R., being run down and both of his legs injured. The horse was attached to a carriage and started from the Hotel Racine, directly into a crowd of several hundred people in front of the registering tent. There was a panic to get out of the way and many fell to the pavement. Mr. Thomas was the only one caught. The carriage struck a post and was wrecked and afterward collided with a Kenosha auto and damaged the machine. A dozen regimental reunions were held and the Twelfth Wisconsin battery met to organize for the first time since the close of the war. Commander Martin called the encampment to order and introduced Mayor A. J. Horlick to the old soldiers in the Gold Hall. The mayor delivered an address of welcome. Commander Martin responded. In his annual address Commander Martin said that the membership was weaker, but the comradeship stronger. As the years go by in many localities strenuous efforts have been made to keep up the numbers, but death has been mightier than all, yet many of the small posts are holding on.

SUED; BLOWS UP PROPERTY.

Julius Paulson Igites Dynamite When Served with Papers by Wife.

Sherry.—Julius Paulson, after being served with papers in a divorce action begun by his wife, stepped into a tool house located a short distance from their home, attached a fuse to ten pounds of dynamite stored in the building, lighted it, and then ran out into the adjoining woods. The tool house and the wagon shed close by were completely destroyed, not a vestige remaining of them or their contents, but no damage was done to the house in which Mrs. Paulson and the family were at the time of the explosion. Paulson was later found by the sheriff and placed under arrest.

Family Bears No Malice.

Manitowish.—Mrs. Kuehlberg, her two daughters and her son, testified that they believed Charles Hayes was insane when he killed William Kuehlberg of Manitowish at Maple Grove February 27. The deceased was the son and brother of the witnesses. Hayes had gone to Maple Grove to attend his mother's funeral, and says his mind is a blank as to what transpired.

Girl on Engine Pilot.

Neenah.—In an effort to catch a boat going to a summer resort on Lake Winnebago, three Oshkosh young men, Rufus Schreiber, F. Greene, Roy Baker and Miss Olive Jageron of Neenah hired a St. Paul engine to go from Neenah to High Cliff. Miss Jageron mounted the cow catcher and over five miles of track she clung to the pilot.

To Have Joint Terminal.

Seattle.—Reports from points between Tacoma and Gray's Harbor say that the Milwaukee road surveying parties are locating their lines identically with the former Union Pacific survey. This is taken as another indication that the Milwaukee and Union Pacific will join in their terminal construction.

Charged with Burglary.

Port Washington.—George Adams has been brought here to answer to a charge of burglary and jail breaking. Some time ago he was found not guilty of a safe blowing charge at Hortonville and later was released on a similar charge at Mountain.
